

J.D./M.A. in Communications Requirements

Law School Requirements:

- Nine Law School credits should come from the following list of courses:
 - Administrative Law
 - Communications law
 - Constitutional Law II
 - Copyright Law
 - First amendment Law
 - Intellectual Property Law
 - Internet Law
 - Mass Media Law

- Additional law courses to be considered (depending on the student's particular area(s) of interest) are: Antitrust, Art and the Law, Bankruptcy Law, BA, Civil Procedure, Commercial Law, Consumer Law, Corporate Finance, Criminal Law, Cultural Property & Heritage, Elder Law, Election Law, Employment Law, Environmental Law, EU Law, Evidence, Family Law, Financial Regulation, Florida Con Law, Florida Criminal Procedure, Immigration Law, International Finance, International Human Rights, International Law, Latin American Law, Law & Economics, Law & Medicine, Legal Research Techniques, Media & the Law, Mortgage Law, National Security Law, Press Freedoms in the Americas, Public Education Law, Race and the Constitution, Securities Regulation, Sports Law, State & Local Government, Substantive Criminal Law, Trademark Law.

- The Law School will accept 6 credits from the following School of Communication courses: (the courses selected will depend on the specific program, e.g., Journalism, Public Relations or Communication Arts)
 - COM601 Theories of Communication
 - COM602 Methods of Communication Research
 - COM603 Qualitative Research Methodologies
 - COM620 Public Relations Fundamentals
 - CNJ611 Newswriting and Reporting Seminar
 - CNJ612 History of Journalism
 - CNJ619 Advanced Newsgathering and Writing Seminar

School of Communication Requirements:

Required Courses:

All School of Communication programs require 9 credits of required courses. The specific program will determine which of the courses below are required. These courses, in turn, will be the courses (with the exception of CNJ614) applied to the Law School J.D. degree:

- COM601 Theories of Communication
- COM602 Methods of Communication Research
- COM603 Qualitative Research Methodologies
- COM620 Public Relations Fundamentals
- CNJ611 Newswriting and Reporting Seminar
- CNJ612 History of Journalism
- CNJ619 Advanced Newsgathering and Writing Seminar