The Launch of Outer Space Law Sylvia Ospina and Rafael Moro

Sylvia Ospina is a seasoned legal expert in various aspects of satellite communications, space law and related space activities. She obtained her J.D. from New York Law School and her LL.M. degree from McGill University's Institute of Air and Space Law in Montreal, Canada. She has served as an expert for various international organizations, including the World Bank and the International Telecommunication Union. In 2010, she received the International Institute of Space Law's "Distinguished Services Award" for her writing and publishing in the area of space law. She is fluent in English, French, Spanish and conversant in German, Italian and Portuguese.

Rafael Moro is a lawyer specialized in space activities. He worked at the United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs early in his professional career. He received his J.D. from the Autonomía University of Madrid and his LL.M. from the University of Michigan. He currently works as the head of legal affairs at the European aerospace firm Orbispace Engineering. In addition, he serves as an advisor to the Spanish government on space matters, including matters related to the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (COPUOS). He is a frequent lecturer on international space law issues and is currently writing a book on international space law.
